"Seeing is Believing."

And a good lamp must be simple; when it is not simple it is not good. Simple, Beautiful, Good—these words mean much, but to see "The Rochester" will impress the truth more forcibly. All metal, tough and seamless, and made in three pieces only, it is absolutely safe and unbreakable. Like Aladdin's oil of old, it is indeed a "wonderful lamp," for its marvelous light is pure and brighter than gas light, softer than electric light and more cheerful than either.

Look for this stamp—THE ROCHESTER. If the lamp dealer hasn't the genuine article, tell him you want "The Rochester" and we will send you a lamp safely by express, our choice of over 8,000 varieties from the Largest Lamp Store in the World.

HAZEL GREEN HERALD.

SPENCER COOPER, - - - Editor.

HAZEL GREEN, KY.:
FRIDAY, Oct. 9, 1891.

Judge John E. Cooper passed through here Wednesday en route to West Liberty, at which place he had adjourned the Morgan county grand jury from Thursday of last week to Thursday of this week. A HERALD representative asked the Judge if he would be a candidate for the Appellate Judgeship, but he was non-committal. This, however, he did say, if he could secure the nomination without a wrangle he would gladly accept it. Judge Cooper, in our humble opinion, could defeat any Republican in the district should he receive the Democratic nomination, and if elected he would fill the position with honor to himself and to the people of the State.

Robert Bonner, ex-editor of the New York Ledger, and quite an authority on trotting horses, gives the opinion that the great race at Lexington between Allerton 2:09, and Nancy Hanks 2:09, will result in breaking the record of Maud S., at present queen of the turf with a record of 2:08. Mr. Bonner thinks Nancy Hanks will win the $10,000 purse on Thursday next, but in his perhaps excusable egotism, says his own Sunol is the fastest mare in the world. The fact that she trotted a half-mile in 1:03, a 2:06 gate, only a few days since, gives him good ground for his opinion, and she will doubtless fulfill his fondest hopes.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Washington, Oct. 2, 1891.

President Harrison, owing to the continued absence of his Secretary of State, was compelled to drop everything else for the greater portion of this week in order that he might give his personal attention to the very peculiar state of affairs which our minister reported as existing at the temporary capital of Chile, where it was alleged that American citizens were arrested and a guard placed around the United States minister's residence. Mr. Harrison is commanded by members of all parties for the manner in which he acted in this matter. It was represented to him that there were feelings of enmity existing between Minister Egan and members of the temporary Chilean government that should be taken into consideration before he acted officially, and he is reported to have said: "The personal feelings of Mr. Egan and members of the present Chilean government are not to be thought of at this time. It is the dignity of the Government of the United States that demands my first consideration." Acting in accordance with that idea Minister Egan was cabled to demand the immediate withdrawal of the guard from the U. S. legation and the release of any American citizens that may have been arrested, and in no long time it was cabled back that the demand had been acceded to. Had it been refused Mr. Egan was instructed to appeal to Captain Schley of the U. S. S. Baltimore now at Valparaiso for protection; and Captain Schley had received instructions to march his force of marines to Santiago if called upon by the minister. In standing by his minister Mr. Harrison has undoubtedly taken a popular step, but the real question at issue is whether a minister to a foreign country has a right to allow his legation to be used as an asylum. Such a thing would not be tolerated in any European capital for an hour, and although it has been the custom of the ministers of all countries to allow it to all in the South and Central American countries where revolutions are frequent, it is doubted by the best international lawyers whether Minister Egan had any legal right to grant asylum to other than citizens of the United States. It is stated here and generally believed that the Chilean authorities were controlled by certain European influences which are antagonistic to the commercial interests of the United States in this matter.

The Pension office is again the center of a perfect malacration of accusation and counter accusation. Three employees of that office have made affidavit that young Baum, who resigned some months ago, was the author of the scandal created by the statement that he had been engaged in a liaison with a woman with whom a proposition to have them promoted through his influence with his father, for a cash consideration. These affidavits were carried to Secretary Noble and he has turned them over to Mr. Garrison. Meanwhile Commissioner Raun is by no means idle. He has demanded that Secretary Noble dismisses the three employees who made the affidavits against his son, and has submitted to Secretary Noble a lot of documentary evidence which he claims proves that these three men have entered into a conspiracy to injure him through attacks on his son. The matter will have to be settled by Mr. Garrison and upon its settlement depends the official existence of Commissioner Raun.

The Chilian rumpus has had the effect of further postponing the various prominent appointments that the politicians have been so hungrily expecting ever since Mr. Garrison returned to Washington.

The effect that small things have upon large ones was never more strikingly exemplified than the report of Major Pollock, the Superintendent of the Free mail delivery system, who has just returned from an examination tour of the principal free delivery offices in the West. Maj. Pollock says that the recent abolition of the custom of compelling carriers to count every piece of mail received and dispatched from postoffices, will result in a saving to the Government about $300,000 a year, and on account of the time saved by the carriers it does away with any immediate need of largely increasing the carrier force in all sections of the country, as it was expected sometime ago would have to be done.

Wolfe County Teachers' Association.
The Wolfe County Teachers' Association held their first meeting at the Academy in this place on last Saturday. The attendance was not what it should have been, but those who were present made up in interest what was lacking in numbers.

President L. C. Graham called the house to order at the appointed time and stated the object of the meeting in a neat little speech.

A quite a number who had been assigned duties failed to put in an appearance the meeting adjourned until the afternoon, at which time the following program was carried out:

Recitation, Miss Malie James.

How to raise the standard of teachers, J. W. Taulhee, the subject being discussed by Prof. Cord, H. L. Gaines and others.

H. L. Gaines was then called, and responded by reciting "Kate Shelly."

"Should the teacher's wages be graded according to his qualifications, as shown by his certificate?" was discussed by W. H. DeBusk, L. C. Graham, James H. Swango and others.

Before adjourning it was agreed that all members of the Association who should fail to perform the duty assigned them by the committee on program, should be fined.

The next meeting will be held at Campton on the first Saturday in November. J. W. Taulhee, H. L. Gaines and W. H. DeBusk were appointed to prepare a program, which will be announced in due time. Let every teacher in the county make it a point to attend with as many of his trustees and friends as possible.

We would suggest to the trustees that when they want a live energetic teacher, to take charge of their school, to look for one among those that attend the meetings of the Association.

Consumption Cured.

Acutated by this native and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper. W. A. NOYES, 820 Powers' Block, Rochester, N. Y.

HOME HINTS AND HELPS.

-Lime-water is good for chilblains. Use it both strong and hot. A saturated solution of alum in water, used hot, is also very efficacious.

-A piece of flannel or napkin folded lengthwise and dipped in hot water and wrung out, and then applied round the neck of the child that has the crop will sometimes bring relief in ten minutes.

-Canned Sardines make very nice sandwiches. Remove skin and bones and rub the fish fine. Mix with a dash of dried egg, add a little melted butter and lemon juice, and mix to paste with the fish, and then spread between thin slices of buttered bread.

-A pretty idea in house furnishing is to hang the pictures with ribbons of a color to harmonize with the decorative motif in the room. A youthful mistress of a pretty country home recently furnished has in her own particular apartments walls of pale rose color, upon which pictures in white and gold frames are hung with delicate ribbons.—N. Y. Sun.

-Pineapple Ice Cream: Slice two large pineapples in thin layers, scatter between the layers two cups of powdered sugar, and let stand three hours. Then chop and cut fine and strain through a sieve into three pints of cream, beat this gradually and freeze. It is improved by reserving a few pieces of pineapple until the cream is half frozen. Then cut into bits and add with a pint of whipped cream. Very delicate.—Detroit Free Press.

-Shrimp Salad: Line a glass dish with crisp lettuce leaves. Mix together one plate prepared shrimps (boiled and picked) two stalks of celery, a cup of salt. Place among the lettuce leaves. Over this pour a dressing made as follows: One gill of cider-vinegar, teaspoonful of mustard, pinch of sugar, yolk of one hard-boiled egg, well mashed. Bring to a boil, then cool. Cut white of egg into rings, place an olive in each, and arrange about the salad.—Lady's Home Journal.

-French Pancakes: Six eggs, one pint of cream, one ounce of butter; beat the whites and yolks of the eggs separately; beat a pint of cream till it is stiff; then beat the egg cream together with a little piece of butter, put a spoonful of the mixture, fry it very quickly; but it turns in the oven, rolling it as you take it from the pan, putting a little grated sugar between; the pancakes will rise in the oven do not fry them till they are required, as they must be served very hot.

-Cheese straws are also made from puff paste. Roll out some paste until it is about thin as a fifty-cent piece. Cut it into strips about four inches long by an inch and a half wide. Put a few drops of milk over each strip, roll it up in a spoonful of the mixture, fry it very quickly; but it turns in the oven, rolling it as you take it from the pan, putting a little grated sugar between; the pancakes will rise in the oven do not fry them till they are required, as they must be served very hot.

-Blueberry Cake: For one sheet of cake, take a pint of flour, one-half pint of oil, one gill of sugar, one egg, two heaping teaspoonsfuls of baking powder, half a pint of blueberries and two tablespoonsfuls of butter. Mix the baking powder, sugar and salt with the flour and rub through a sieve; then work the butter through the flour. Beat the egg till light and add the milk to it. Add this to the dry ingredients and beat well. Now add the berries, stirring as little as possible. Spread the mixture in a well-buttered shallow baking pan, having a goblet or such a flat thick slice. Bake in a moderate quick oven for about twenty-five minutes, and serve hot.—Boston Budget.

DUST CLOAKS.

Handy Garments to be Worn When Travelling

Dust cloaks for traveling in drawing-room cars are of shot silk, and are handsome enough for wearing in open carriages when driving in the afternoon, while more simple and useful garments are the figured muslins or glossy alpacas with smooth borders, or long and narrow in stripes make a pretty cloak, and others are of cool-looking gray with blue, or the dark gold and black, or brown with black. The silk cloaks are made full, and are shrined into shape by many gathered tucks around the neck, and cords or simple gathers at the waist line. The sleeves are of enormous size, with full frill at the wrists, or turned-back cuffs, and there is a deep frilled collar. Parade models use handsome lace borders on these cloaks, a yoke or else as bracelets, with deep collar and cuffs to match. A skein of pale green wool, ribbed like corduroy, yet light in weight as crepon, is a very elegant garment when trimmed with white guipure lace. The neat broad red mohair cloaks have stitched capes of three or four layers, or else lace is used for their garniture. Square-meshed canvas in green, beige, or gray shades has woven diamond-work borders that are charming, when worn in the day. Cloaks few rows of full cloises in peasant shape are now seen, though elderly ladies prefer them to closer-fitted cloaks. Ponchos in dust-colors, gray, and cera, and dark blue surah are used for these cloaks, with shirred yoke, and rows of shirring at the waistline in the back.—Harper's Bazaar.

USEFULNESS OF THE WASP.

An Insect That Attends Strictly to Its Own Business.

The philosopher has not yet risen who can tell us the good purpose for which the wasp was created, except that it be that he may destroy other noxious insects, which in itself can hardly be esteemed a good purpose, while things animate in nature are themselves often fed noxious insects included—declared to be made for good purpose. But the wasp, if we are placed in a safe position to study it, conveys two excellent lessons—the care of its children and attention to its own instead of other people's business. It is an excellent provider for its family, laying in supplies long ahead, and it is, as most of humanity can testify, a most vigorous and determined protector of its home and kind. The wasp has architectural skill of the highest grade, and his works are far from being nor full to pieces, except where they are destroyed by man or any accidental intrusion of a heavier power knocks them to pieces. Early in the summer the common paper-wasp builds her house. She makes it of that material which man has only recently discovered to be among the most durable substances for even the heaviest purpose—the paper of wood-pulp—and like an economic householder who knows the evils of middlemen and contractors, she builds her own wood-pulp, chewing woody fibers with her jaws, and making them into a pulp which hardens into paper. The common mud-wasp builds most beautiful cells of earth, which she often fastens to the rafters of houses. She lays one egg in each cell and then fills the cells with dead insects—spiders, flies, and so forth—as a store of provisions on which the young wasp shall feed when its shell is broken and it is yet too weak and small to scratch around for itself. The mother wasp then flies off the entrance to the nest, and when she departs, it is believed to die, her work well and faithfully done. In the spring the ova are broken the young wasps nourished by the food supplied them, grow in strength until they are enabled to burst the barriers at the doorway, and then go forth to follow the same round of life which their parents followed before them.

As to wasps attending to their own business, this they do strictly. If you meet an interloper with whom he will not sting you, they are, however, extremely sensitive and should not be needlessly aroused. When a mud-wasp's nest is found in the rafters of a country house it is just as well to let it remain until winter sets in, when it can safely be destroyed, the old wasps being gone and the young ones yet in their eggs. But while the wasp is building, it is just as well also to let him alone. He will not disturb you if you do not disturb him, and his actions soon become a source of general and instruction to the household—lessons indeed in industry and family affection.—N. Y. Tribune.

BEATING A BETTOR.

One Case Where the Fish Was Up to the Stated Weight.

A number of men stood in front of a railroad office on Clark street, looking at an enormous mackerel, which stretched on ice, served as an advertisement of the road's fishing grounds. One of the men, glancing at the card which announced the weight of the fish, said, with a smile:

"Twenty-fourty-five pounds! I'll bet twenty dollars it doesn't weigh thirty-four. Anybody want to take me up?" Do you?" he added, speaking to a young fellow who came out of the office.

"Do I what?"

"Want to bet on the weight of this fish?"

"What's the use of betting on it? The card tells how much it weighs," etc., I know what the card tells, but I want to get the real weight of the fish, not the printed weight. It doesn't weigh twenty-four pounds."

"All right, I'll go you."

The money was put up. The fish weighed forty-five pounds. When the defeated man was gone, some one, speaking to the winner, said:

"You ran in big risk."

"Not much. You see there are a number of fellows who go around disputing the weight of 'railroad fish,' and are continually anxious to be the first to weigh as much as the rail-road states, and they don't, as a rule, but I fixed this one. The original card gave the weight at fifty pounds, but expecting a sharper along, I changed it."—Arkansas Traveler.

Quizzed by Lincoln.

Judge Green W. Scoville was a personal friend of Abraham Lincoln. A moderately private, having known down his captain, was tried, convicted and sentenced to the Dry Tortugas. His friends urged Scoville to have him released, so he went to see the president and told his story. Listening attentively, Lincoln replied: "I tell you, judge, you go right down to the capitol and get congress to pass a act authorizing a private soldier to knock down his captain. Then come back and I will pardon your man." The judge said that he would pardon your man. The judge said that he would pardon your man. The judge did not press the case further.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

The world is full of men who never forgive a promise that is made to them.

Cairo's Unhealthfulness.

Cairo for a long time has been notorious as one of the most unhealthful cities of her size in the world and is likely to remain so unless the French can induce to abandon their present protective policy in Egypt. The town is constantly threatened by drainage and year by year the number of cases of the evil becomes more urgent.

Some time ago the government took the matter in hand, employed a number of distinguished sanitary engineers and prepared a scheme for a system of sewerage which is generally admitted to be the best and cheapest that could be devised. It was proposed to pay for the improvement by the tolls received by the city, but France will not consent to such a plan, and has sent an international commission of three experts to study the question, to invite plans and to decide which is to be adopted, no plan to be adopted unless accepted by all three experts unanimously. The object of this proposition is clear and unless it is modified the drainage plan must be abandoned, at least for the present.—Boston Transcript.

It is doubtful if the record of early expenditures of any great man begins with a more creditable disbursement than that of Webster while a pedagogue at Fryeburg, Me., which is preserved there as a monument. The first charge down is for soap, one six-pence, and on January 1, 1800, Webster paid a toll of one penny for a boat, two six-pence."

In one of the Paris papers an American has complained that the tomb of Lafayette is sadly neglected; that no attempt has been made to decorate the grave, although there are thousands of Americans in Paris. The writer says he found a ragged American flag on the grave, and this he replaced by a new one. In all France there remains not one person named Lafayette.

DEMOCRATIC BANNER

Congressman J. W. Kendall to Knott County.

Speech of Joseph M. Kendall at Hindman, September 26, 1891.

FELLOW-DEMOCRATS OF KNOTT.—My gray-haired sire, whose manhood has drawn its sweetest music from the battles of his party, who, a few days hence, will bear to our country's capital your commission to a seat in the foremost popular assembly upon the face of the earth, there, as the only new member from Kentucky, to stand as your mouth-piece in the advocacy of those sublime industrial reforms now pressing for settlement as they never pressed before, upon the heart and brain of the Federal Congress—at the eleventh hour has thrown upon my unworthy shoulders the delicate, but grateful, task of presenting this speech to your daunted Democracy. It was offered by him and won by you in eighteen-hundred-and-unitey's glorious autumnal campaign, when the Democratic banners danced in the Kansas breezes, unhooking the emasculated, sarcastic Ingalls, and waved triumphantly over the three great Commonwealths that have given to the constitutional Democracy, respectively the sage Palmer, the wizard-lipped Vilas, and the diplomatic Dickinson.

Gentlemen, the mere fact that you won this standard when the strongest precinct in our county failed to hold an election, is in itself significant and admonishes that cluster of counties with Morgan at their head, who pride themselves upon big Democratic majorities, and who, in the fierce contests that lie behind us, have monopolized the honors of this district, in that respect, in the future, either claim the laurels she must await the news from Knott.

May I be pardoned a personal allusion. Twenty-four hours before the ballots, like the flakes of a wintry snow storm upon your hills and valleys, began to fall on that memorable November morning, jaded and worn, and with empty hands I came to Knott county comparatively a stranger to your people. The war-eagles of your Democracy, with one or two exceptions, were absent as witnesses at Winchester, wholly unmindful when they started that our fortunes were endangered. This gave the battle to the boys, and right nobly and resolutely did Duncraggan's strapping signal on. By His word is truth, I swear, that that tempestuous night 'mid wind and rain the brooch and gem of your young manhood, mounted upon wild mules and carrying lanterns, threaded each mountain pass and roused the unsuspecting clause to action, until, like a torrent at its height gathering strength from unnumbered tributaries, you proved irresistible in your onward march, will endure in your comrades' memory so long as Democracy is the synonym of Right and the river of the past. The history of that struggle will remain unwritten. To do it justice the white hand of charity must needs wield a pen of iron grain.

Gentlemen, this, Knott county's endorsement so long as it floats, fair and free from your temple of justice, or is remembered, will emblem the power and prestige of an unparalleled political victory, achieved not only here, but by patriotic legions uprising all over the Union. It is typical, and signifies that there are some things that can not be bought and that this congressional district is one of them. It demonstrates conclusively that a man without money, with something else, can still go to Congress. It lays the unblemished sword of Democratic Knights hood across every individual who helped to win it, and that, under the canopy of heaven, there is no higher honor. I need hardly assure you that I observe with infinite satisfaction that you so esteem it. That grand, old Democratic stronghold from whence these colors come to you with 88% majority in an off-year for her own beloved, honored son, bows low, and gracefully submits to Knott. High as her hills is Morgan's pride in Knott's majority for her citizen Congressman. Every true blue Democrat in this district, from his heart, salutes and thanks you. This is the old flag of the Revolution, with added stars, and I am only sorry that, like your Democracy, it is not home-spun in its very warp and woof that it might never wear out. I would be recreant did I not declare that your good and beautiful women contributed largely to the result. The mountain maiden who selected the banner, and whose touch and gentle whisper of a color name and a meaning to the skies that bend over Knott county, combined with a heart tender than the wild honey-suckles that, dew laden, kiss her limpid streams. She too, is glad to learn that Hindman, where a few brief years ago the branches of the primitive oak and poplar interlocked, their topmost twigs bathed in the equal sunlight, has ten months of high school easily conducted, with a happy, industrious, progressive, prosperous, peaceful people, surrounded by the quiet simplicities of rural life, solving their own problems in their own sweet way, contented to be no longer disgraced by highland fief or border war, that the supremacy of the law is felt and respected, and that your best citizens are banded together, as one man, successfully upholding law and order. God bless and prosper Knott county, and may her Democratic majority never grow less!

Eloquent and appropriate speeches were made by prominent citizens of Knott county accepting the flag.

Deafness Can't be Cured.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that we cannot cure by taking Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Charles Clay, a white man living near Henderson, Ky., was arrested last evening on a single charge, the warrant being issued against him at the instance of James Henderson. Clay is charged with having opened the grave of Henderson's wife and cutting out from the right hand of the dead woman the finger. Clay has been unlucky at cards, and was advised by some of his companions of a sure way to secure luck, namely to visit a graveyard on a dark night, upon the grave of a female and cut off the forefinger of her right hand. Clay was credulous enough to believe in the receipt, and acted on it. He had no motive of robbery, as was shown by his leaving untouched a valuable ring worn on the left hand of the corpse.

The following would indicate that there is still hope for the paralyzed. Frank Cornelius, Purcell, Indian Ter., says: "I induced Mr. Pinson, whose wife had paralysis in the face, to try a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. To their great surprise before the bottle had been all used she was a great deal better. Her face had been drawn to one side, but the Pain Balm relieved all pain and soreness, and the mouth assumed its natural shape." It is also unequalled for rheumatism, lame back, sprains, swellings and lameness. 50 cent bottles for sale by Rose & Swango.

The "Rev." Joe Munday, the actor-preacher who a few years ago "evangelized" in Louisville, has bobbed up in Morgan as a "dead game sport." Sunday he preached to about $60 at Henderson, and yesterday he wanted to pool at $10 a side. He handled his cue too deftly for the Morganfield boys, however, and left the place for fresher fields, gloriously drunk.—Courier Journal.

At this season of the year people can not be too careful about keeping their bowel regular. Bilious and malarial diseases are often brought on by allowing the bowels to become torpid. An occasional dose of St. Patrick's Pill is all that would be required and might prevent serious sickness. For sale by Rose & Swango.
